

"We've tried to make sure that we get the technology working in a way that increases and accelerates football's evolution," said Gary Hughes, Technical Director at EA Sports. "We want to make sure we get the best game, with the technology that's available. We're not artificially implementing things, we're just trying to make sure that everything is more realistic and more natural. The control is everything and we've tried to make sure we take the control away from the player and make the player execute what is going on in the real game." In addition to the new field of view, which represents the entire pitch at 90 degrees (versus FIFA 21's 45 degrees), EA has made a variety of other gameplay changes to the online experience. Controls FIFA 22 has an entirely new control scheme. The new control scheme is based on the XBOX One and PS4 controllers. Players can still map their own controls to whichever button configuration they prefer. FIFA Online EA has also made a number of changes to the online portion of the game. "Our vision was to create an online experience that is far more consistent and user-friendly," Hughes explained. "With previous iterations, there have been a lot of things that were technically built for the console, and then baked into the game. With FIFA 22, we've created an online experience that is not dependent on your console, so it works on everything. You can play online with Xbox, PS4, iPhone, Android, you name it." Regarding the online experience, Hughes continued, "We use a system called 'social invites,' which is a way to help everyone get connected to a game early, by making sure people in online forums are telling people where they are and what they're doing. It gives the game team a lot more visibility into the community and, as a result, we've been able to make some big changes to FIFA Online this time around. For instance, we've made the ranking and transfer system much, much better. "The main thing that has been important to us is being able to offer the most amount of power to the user. We want them to be able to create the best experience. That's our number one goal when we think

What's new:

- Go Pro: An all-new Player Scouting mode enables our in-house scouts to uncover your next star. Now, get ready to sign world-class talents like Romelu Lukaku and Paul Pogba. With FIFA Ultimate Team, it's not about how you play the game, it's about who you play it with. We're also releasing a new pack of players called 'First XI' - but you'll have to wait for August to find out more.

- 10 Points per League Goal: If you shoot better than your opponents, you should get rewarded. FIFA 22 introduces a new Intelligence system that rewards you for scoring goals, matching your teammates shots and keeping your opponents on the pitch. Points are awarded to your team if you perform well on a specific angle. Have a bad day? Points go down. Play out the whole match? Points go down.
- Match Day: The bottom line is, nobody likes viewing dots and crosses without a soccer ball coming into them. When you take part in a FIFA match, a football has to come out.
- Identities: Among our 16 debuting identities you'll find some that you've played in FIFA before. But 12 will be new-to-FIFA. 14 past player identities have made their way back to FIFA 2K18, and FIFA 2K19 will have a further 11 - including the likes of Felipe Anderson, Edinson Cavani, Sergio Ramos, Andriy Shevchenko and Iker Casillas. Plus, we have two all-new identities.
- The Journey: The Journey on the FIFA Stadium will now replace the Moments at the end of a Match. Now go to the Journey and challenge your friends to a game of FIFA, challenge them to a Quidditch game, or compete with your friends in a friendly Fireball duel. Take part in live Online Play sessions that let you and your friends see a FIFA 22 match together with enhanced chat options. Create a Twitter account and you can keep up with all the latest FIFA and FIFA 2K updates.
- Roles: Take on the role of the mascot, referee, radio announcer or more by making your own animation on the stadiums and playing the role in certain missions. Create a dynamic face for your player by choosing the face tattoos that support your style.
